

PRODUCT RECALL
MOTHER'S PRIDE SCOTTISH PLAIN BATCH BREAD 800G MEDIUM CUT
Best before 1 June 2006
TESCO SCOTTISH PLAIN BATCH BREAD 800G
Best before 1 June 2006

British Bakeries announces the recall, as a precautionary measure, of its Mother's Pride Scottish Plain Batch Bread 800g Medium Cut and of Tesco Scottish Plain Batch Bread 800g.

The affected loaves have a best before date of 1 June, 2006. They were sold in Tesco and a wide range of other retailers across the UK but mainly in Scotland from Monday 29 May.

The recall follows a short, isolated mechanical failure at one of British Bakeries' Scottish bakeries. As a result, a very small number of loaves may contain metal fragments. Although the risk is small, British Bakeries has taken this precautionary measure because it believes the health and safety of consumers is paramount.

No other products have been recalled. British Bakeries asks anyone with an affected loaf to return it to the retailer at which it was purchased for a full refund.
