

Proposed changes to the health and identification marks

Status Open

Date launched 27 July 2018

Closing date 27 August 2018

About this consultation

This consultation is of interest to local authorities and approved premises in England, Wales, and Northern Ireland.

Consultation subject

The detail of the UK's future relationship with the EU remains subject to negotiation. However, the Food Standards Agency (FSA) is consulting stakeholders on a number of detailed issues where it is clear that, whatever the outcome of those negotiations, a change to business practices will be necessary. This consultation concerns changes to health and identification marks on certain food products.

Consultation purpose

When the UK leaves the EU, the letters 'EU' or 'EC' within the current marks will no longer be permitted. This change will impact on all approved establishments. To provide for this change, the FSA proposes to amend the current health and identification mark by removing the 'EU' or 'EC' prefix.

The dimensions and form of the current health and identification marks will remain the same, including the 'UK' abbreviation representing England, Wales, Scotland and Northern Ireland. It will continue to be a single mark incorporating the establishment approval number, which will also remain unchanged.

This update will ensure that UK products continue to display an appropriate label that clearly shows the product has been subject to the strict health and welfare checks that will continue after the UK leaves the EU.

The purpose of this consultation is to receive views and further information from the industry on these proposed changes and their potential impact.
