

Join our Scientific Advisory Committees

We are inviting applications from senior experts to join our independent Scientific Advisory Committees (SACs) and Science Council.

The work of the independent committees that advise us helps to ensure our advice to consumers is based on the best and most recent scientific evidence. To learn more about the work of the SACs, click the below video to hear from the Chair of the Advisory Committee on Novel Foods and Processes (ACNFP), Dr Camilla Alexander-White.

For further information on the expertise we are looking for and how to apply, see our SAC recruitment webpages.