

Café Class recalls various sandwiches and bakery products due to undeclared allergens

Café Class is recalling various sandwiches and bakery products because they may contain mustard and/or sesame and/or egg and/or milk which are not mentioned on the label. This means the products are a possible health risk for anyone with an allergy to mustard and/or sesame, and/or an allergy or intolerance to egg and/or milk or milk constituents.

Risk statement

Allergen(s): Mustard, sesame, eggs and milk

These products may contain mustard and/or sesame and/or eggs and/or milk, making them a possible health risk for anyone with an allergy to mustard and/or sesame, and/or an allergy or intolerance to egg and/or milk or milk constituents.

Action taken by the company

Café Class is recalling the above products from customers and has been advised to contact the relevant allergy support organisations, which will tell their members about the recall.

Our advice to consumers

If you have bought the above products and have an allergy to mustard and/or sesame, and/or an allergy or intolerance to egg and/or milk or milk constituents, do not eat them. Instead return them to the store from where they were bought for a full refund.

About allergy alerts

Sometimes there will be a problem with a food product that means it should not be sold. Then it might be 'withdrawn' (taken off the shelves) or 'recalled' (when customers are asked to return the product). Sometimes foods have to be withdrawn or recalled if there is a risk to consumers because the allergy labelling is missing or incorrect or if there is any other food allergy risk. When there is a food allergy risk, the FSA will issue an Allergy Alert.
