

Homestyle Sandwiches recalls several sandwiches because of undeclared allergens and incorrect labelling

Homestyle Sandwiches is recalling several sandwich products because some contain egg, milk, mustard and fish which are not mentioned on the label and some contain mustard, soya, milk, egg and wheat (gluten) which are not emphasised on the label. This means the products are a possible health risk for anyone with an allergy or intolerance to egg and/or wheat (gluten) and/or milk or milk constituents and/or fish and/or mustard and/or soya.

Action taken by the company

Homestyle Sandwiches is recalling the above products from customers and has been advised to contact the relevant allergy support organisations, which will tell their members about the recall. The company has also issued a point-of-sale notice to its customers. These notices explain to customers why the product are being recalled and tells them what to do if they have bought the products.

Our advice to consumers

If you have bought the above products and have an allergy or intolerance to egg and/or wheat (gluten) and/or milk or milk constituents and/or fish and/or mustard and/or soya, do not eat them. Instead return them to the store from where they were bought for a full refund.

About allergy alerts

Sometimes there will be a problem with a food product that means it should not be sold. Then it might be 'withdrawn' (taken off the shelves) or 'recalled' (when customers are asked to return the product). Sometimes foods have to be withdrawn or recalled if there is a risk to consumers because the allergy labelling is missing or incorrect or if there is any other food allergy risk. When there is a food allergy risk, the FSA will issue an Allergy Alert.
