

Report of workshop on adult food allergy

Area of research interest: Food hypersensitivity

Planned completion: 1 March 2014

Conducted by: Royal Society, London

Our organisation convened a workshop co-sponsored by BSACI in March 2014. Over 60 leading research scientists and clinicians with expertise in food allergy and relevant areas participated in the workshop which was held at the Royal Society, London. The aim of the event was to draw together researchers and clinicians working in the allergy arena with knowledge of the issues surrounding food allergy in adulthood to discuss recent developments and current scientific challenges. Through this, we hope to prioritise areas for research and explore opportunities for collaborative research.
