Profile

Fiona Gately - FSA Board Member

Fiona Gately has extensive experience in the food industry, working across the sector for government, business, philanthropy and advocacy organisations.

She served as an expert adviser on food to the Secretary of State at the Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs and was a member of its Advisory Committee on Organic Standards from 2003 to 2005. Between 2004 and 2011, she directed campaigns for Jamie Oliver's on school dinners, cooking skills and obesity in the UK and US, leading engagement with consumers, stakeholders and government. In 2005, she set up the School Food Trust for the Department for Education to deliver new standards and guidance for school meals and then served on the Board between 2009 and 2011.

Fiona established the award-winning product range for Duchy Originals, King Charles' (then Prince of Wales) organic food brand, establishing their supply chains and manufacturing partnerships and building consumer awareness of organic food. Her industry experience includes serving as head of marketing at the UK's organic dairy co-operative, Omsco, and establishing a gut health start up.

She now works as a sustainable food systems consultant.

The Food Standards Agency (FSA) Board Members are asked to declare any interests or related party interests that are relevant to the work of the FSA as well as all remunerated outside employment, work and appointments (whether relevant or not).

An individual may have other interests and while the FSA is aware of these, they are judged to be not relevant to the Members' role and therefore not in scope for publication.

All relevant interests are managed by the department to prevent the risk of perceived, potential or actual conflicts of interest.
