

WILD GAME GUIDE PHOTO ANNEX

This guide contains examples of:

- good and bad transportation
- bad storage
- storage in chiller
- game larders
- trained person declarations
- in-feather, plucked and oven ready small wild game

Acknowledgment: These photos have kindly been provided by the British Association for Shooting Conservation, the National Game Dealers' Association and the National Gamekeepers' Organisation

EXAMPLES OF GOOD TRANSPORTATION

Clean hygienic transportation, preventing contamination and allowing good air flow between carcasses

EXAMPLES OF BAD TRANSPORTATION

Showing heaping and cross contamination - should be avoided

EXAMPLES OF BAD STORAGE

Inappropriate storage of chemicals - Poor vermin control - Porous surfaces - Contaminated clothing

STORAGE IN CHILLER

Avoid overfilling - Ensure effective separation to prevent cross contamination
Store large wild game at 7°C and small wild game at 4°C

GOOD

BAD

EXAMPLES OF GAME LARDERS

Protect against contamination - Keep it clean using clean or potable water
Disinfect when necessary - Maintain the cold chain - Have adequate washing facilities

GOOD

BAD

EXAMPLES OF TRAINED PERSON DECLARATIONS

EXAMPLES OF PLUCKED and IN FEATHER SMALL GAME

Pigeon

Woodcock (Scolopax rusticola)

EXAMPLES OF OVEN READY SMALL WILD GAME

Red Legged Partridge (Alectoris rufa)

Cock & Hen Pheasant

(Phasianus colchicus)

